

From a young age, teaching has always been my passion. As early as middle school and high school, I was already coaching and teaching swimming, and was frequently a student leader in youth groups. Eventually this led me to pursue a career and vocation in education. Teaching has allowed me to work in many places around the world including Austria, Hungary, England and across the United States. Traveling, cooking, reading great literature, and spending time outdoors complements my passion for learning and growing in my faith.

I feel blessed to be a part of a Catholic, Christian community which seeks God in all things, loving to share the beautiful Catholic vision of the human person fully formed spiritually and intellectually in Christ. I am inspired deeply by the work and witness of St. John Paul the Great, with whom I had the pleasure to meet and receive a personal blessing. I take great courage and hope in his words: "We are not the sum of our weakness and failures; we are the sum of the Father's love for us and the real capacity to become the image of his Son."
